

Year
11

Practical

- The quality of technique, accuracy and consistency is maintained for more advanced skills, throughout practice and full context situations.
- Decision making is mostly effective in both predetermined and increasingly spontaneous situations.
- There are few errors in performance of skills and some in full context situations.
- Contributions to full context situations are usually effective and significant.
- Make some effective tactical decisions in full context.

Written element

- Knowledge and understanding is excellent.
- Use appropriate applications and relevant examples consistently throughout their work.
- Information is organised, style of information is presented appropriately.
- Very good use of subject specific terminology and vocabulary.
- Few errors in spelling, punctuation and grammar.
- Able to justify and evaluate some theoretical concepts.
- Able to interpret and analyse data and draw accurate conclusions.

Year
10

Year
9

