

PEER IN SCHOOL VISIT

The College welcomed Labour life peer Baroness Andrews on Friday 10th May who came to speak to our students about the role of the House of Lords and was keen to engage our students with discussions of contemporary issues such as Brexit and the impact of social media

Baroness Andrews engaged with students throughout her visit and was interviewed by students from the Heathfield Vine and Heathfield TV which will be featured in the upcoming editions of the Vine and Heathfield TV.

This was followed by a talk to Year 10 and Year 12 students where she discussed the increasing importance of the House of Lords in recent years and her long career in public service. The Baroness having served as a special advisor to Neil Kinnock in the 1980s and Labour's spokesman on Education in the House of Lords from 2002-2005.

She then engaged with questions and answers with the students.

Henry Heard commented that: ‘

‘I thought the Baroness was really kind and thoughtful towards people of all views. She expressed her own views and understood anyone who disagreed with her.’

Euan Goodwin said after the event:

‘She was very interesting, her answers to the questions were really interesting and it was good to hear a different viewpoint on Brexit.’

Message from the Headteacher, Caroline Barlow

You only have to spend a short amount of time with our students and they will energise and renew your spirit. They are incredible young people. Like most grown-ups, we can be prone to moments of grumpiness when things don't go our way or feel fair. In College we try to ensure that no matter how difficult our day might be, our interactions with students are positive and more often than not this can be a tonic in itself.

I felt the full force of that tonic this week in a number of ways:

The first example was seeing Year 11 in the hall on Tuesday, preparing to go into their first GCSE exam. Receiving their last minute reminders, the buzz and anticipation in the room was tangible. They knew they were ready, they felt confident and there was a real sense of "lets get on with this; we know we can do well." I was incredibly proud of them and their Science staff for arriving at the right time, in the right way. I have every faith in them for this exam season.

The second occasion this week was talking with some students about an entry we have been asked to submit for a book that will be released later this year. This is the second year running we have been asked to be a case study for an educational publication, showcasing some of the best practise in the country. In this instance the authors wanted student perspectives on the College, what did they enjoy, what had they experienced. It was wonderful to hear the answer to the question 'who is your favourite teacher was: " All of them, I can't choose! All the teachers at Heathfield Community College are amazing. That's what all my friends say whenever we talk about it and why we come here."

Finally, this week the sun came out and our beautiful grounds came into their own. I could not help but reflect on my good fortune to be able to spend my lunchtime outside, talking to cheerful and interesting young people, in-between their cartwheeling and football kicking, relaxed, happy and active. They are witty, caring and enthusiastic for their learning and life.

Sadly, I cannot transport you to our world everyday but do take a glance at the pages here and feel reassured that our young people are an impressive group of whom we have every right to be collectively proud. Thank you as always to the parents and carers who work with us in this collaborative effort that is our College.

“Our greatest strength lies not in never having fallen, but in rising every time we fall”
Confucius

Last Friday, we were fortunate enough to be visited by Baroness Andrews which was greatly beneficial to Economics students.

Once again, we have had another busy fortnight at the College. Over the bank holiday weekend, we saw Year 13 A-level physics students visiting CERN, Switzerland: a great opportunity for them to further their in-depth knowledge in preparation for exams.

In College, students have had the opportunity to take part in the second 'Super curriculum' fortnight: a fantastic chance for students to broaden their knowledge on those subjects that they are most passionate about, preparing them for the future by opening many doors in off-syllabus topics.

Year 9 had their collapsed curriculum day, developing their employability skills with over 35 external visitors showing Heathfield's link to the wider world of work. Workshops were run to discuss and develop soft skills as students consider their contribution to society.

Year 7 experienced their first ever parents' evening at Heathfield, receiving wonderful feedback which will help them shape their fulfilling journey at the College.

On Monday the long-awaited GCSE exam seasons started. We are ever so proud of how well everyone has been preparing and dealt with this first week. We wish you all the best for the rest of them: just keep going how you are!

Today marks Year 13s last day at Heathfield. We also wish them all the best for their exams and the incredibly bright futures awaiting all of them; they will be missed.

DUKE OF EDINBURGH AWARD SCHEME: TENT PITCHING

The after school Duke of Edinburgh session was extended last week for us to rummage through the tent store in preparation for the expedition season. Our aim was twofold: firstly for all the participants to get to a proficient level of tent pitching and to allocate the tents for each team; secondly, our focus was to see the condition of our donated tents.

In total we pitched in excess of 25 tents in the 2 hours; identifying damage or missing parts; cleaning the insides; and packing them back away. Whilst the ground conditions were perfect it must have been the windiest afternoon in April making putting away extremely interesting! As always, our amazing participants leapt to the challenges and displayed some great teamwork.

More information about the award can be obtained from Ms Harker: charker@heathfieldcc.co.uk

SILVER D of E SUCCESS

We would like to pass on our congratulations to our first successful Silver Duke of Edinburgh Award cohort.

Lydia Smith, Liv Crane, and Isla Howlett were awarded their lapel badges and certificates yesterday supported by Maesie Lane and Anna Hersey-Swan who received their certificates earlier in the year.

The award involves four sections: volunteering for 6 months; learning or honing a skill and completing a physical activity (one for 3 months and the other for 6 months); completing two expedition weekends of 3 days and 2 nights.

A superb achievement and one to be proud of. Certainly one to put on future applications to college, universities or employment to stand out from the crowd.

VOLUNTARY DONATION

By way of update and thanks we wanted to let you know how the voluntary donations have been used this year to benefit students in a range of ways:

- To support motivational speakers to lift the spirits of Year 11 and Year 10 at different points of the year.
- To provide funds for the Executive School Council who have chosen to invest this in additional sports equipment, to support the Eco Reps with new recycling bins and bird boxes and also to assist with the purchase of a new Salad Bar for the canteen.
- To provide for the equipment needed for our student leadership strands such as the Radio Station and HTV.
- Additional board games as requested by students to run lunchtime activities inside.

We are delighted that we have secured the impressive speaker, author and advocate on mental health, Natasha Devon MBE, as our Honours Speaker this year, in addition she will be doing workshops with students during the day so that the maximum number of students can benefit from her powerful messages on mental health and wellbeing.

In addition, at the end of the year some funds will contribute to the redesign and modernisation of the Library and redecoration of parts of the school outside our normal cycle of upkeep.

YEAR 13 VISIT TO CERN, SWITZERLAND

For some of the Year 13, the visit to Geneva, Switzerland, to see the world-renowned research centre of CERN was a was not only a great opportunity to see cutting edge scientific work but their first time flying. As such, the group were extremely excited and the trip and experience more than lived up to expectations. The city of Geneva was admired by all and provided an excellent backdrop for the trip. Despite the weather, which was less than perfect, pupils made the most of their time to explore and find their own experiences of what Geneva had to offer.

The focus of the trip was the visit to CERN (Conseil Européen pour la Recherche Nucléaire) itself. An early start on Saturday morning and a short tram ride took us out of the city and to the foot of the Alps where CERN is situated. In the morning, we had a 3-hour tour of the facilities and lecture about the works and developments that have been made in CERN.

This was truly enlightening as pupils gained a sense of the vastness of the facility, the collaboration between the participating countries, and the depth of scientific work that goes on there. Highlights of the tour included a trip into France to see the Cryogenic test facility (the coldest place on Earth and one of the coldest in the universe). Following our tour, the 2 exhibits provided extra insight into the workings of such a vast and important scientific institute.

The whole trip was rounded off nicely with a visit to the Swiss Natural History museum, showcasing the evolution of humans with a display of 'Lucy', which shows hominids developed bipedal gait about 3.5 million years ago... as well as the extraordinary 2 headed tortoise!

In all, students left the trip with a deepened and more enthused interest for not only physics but science in general.

This event also doubled up as the Specsavers Schools Games qualifying event to represent the North Wealden Warriors in the Sussex Schools Games in June. Two Heathfield teams took part. The B team came 5th and were the highest placed B team, as they also competed against the A teams. SPECSAVERS SCHOOLS GAMES LEVEL 2 PRIMARY TENNIS EVENT

An overcast and shower-threatening day welcomed the first School Games event of the year for Years 3 & 4 from Heathfield area primary schools. The Road to Eastbourne Tennis event culminates in the county finals being held in Eastbourne on the qualifying Saturday of the Nature Valley International Men's and Women's tennis events, where those successful qualifying school players and supporters once they have competed also gain free access to Devonshire Park to watch the international matches.

The 5 schools competing in the Heathfield family round took part in tennis multi skill relay races, skill events and doubles matches. All schools gained points for their 1st- 5th finishing positions in each activity held. Dallington were the winners and they go through to represent Heathfield in the North Wealden Partnership event being held in May at Weald Tennis Nick Matthews for supporting the afternoon. Additional thanks also go to the fabulous year 9 leaders who helped to officiate and score at this event, for some young leaders this was their very first time leading. Their support is much appreciated by Ms Cobbold and all the schools. Without them, the event would not be able to take place.

The teachers and Year 3 & 4 students said during the event, 'I can't believe they are only Year 9 and it's their first time leading. They are so confident and mature.' FAREWELL TO THE EDITOR OF THE HEATHFIELD VINE

As A Level exam season looms, we have to say goodbye to our brilliant student Editor, Louisa Dollimore, who has led The Heathfield Vine so impressively for the past two years.

Louisa has presided over significant growth and development in The Vine, producing high quality termly issues with varied contributions from students across the school. She has also taken our student newspaper to its highest level of success yet with its shortlisting last year in four separate categories of the National Shine Student Media Awards, where it stood proudly against publications from some of the leading independent schools in the country.

“Louisa has been an absolutely fabulous editor,’ said Ms Savage, who supervises the online publication. ‘Her talent for writing clear, engaging stories is evident and her ability to encourage and develop younger writers has been wonderful to behold. We shall miss her enormously. Following a round of interviews last week, a new team has been appointed to take us into next year.”

The role of editor will be taken up by Georgina Sharma in Year 12, with two deputy posts to be held by Amelia Lorrimore in Year 11 and Lottie Macro in Year 10.

As ever, contributions are always welcome from any student in any year group. The editorial team meet on Monday lunchtimes in Room 13.

HOW THE PUBLIC VIEW HEATHFIELD STUDENTS

In recent Headlines we have shared feedback from members of the public who have contacted us to let us know what they experienced when meeting our students out and about. Sometime students don't think we know, or get to hear, about their life outside College but we do!

Some of the most powerful feedback sometimes is to gain a flavour of the things members of the community say without ever intending for us to know or hear! Here is a flavour of things we have been told as overheard....

I attended a board meeting the other day and the stand at the Eastbourne Careers Fair was mentioned. The team commented on the large number of schools present and how unruly most were with the exception of the students from Heathfield Community College. They stood out with their good manners, presentation and general behaviour.

We thoroughly enjoyed delivering to Heathfield students yesterday; they were great to work with and they came up with some really great ideas.

Our staff equally have a stellar reputation. We were recently informed by a potential partner, "Oh I don't need to wait to find out. I have heard all about your College; the reputation is sterling and we really want to work with you."

ECO REPS UPDATE

During Term 5 we have been working as hard as ever to continue to make our College as green as can be! Our main focus has been on the beautifully recycled bird boxes, Seed to Feed and purchasing two new large recycle bins.

Our herb garden is taking form in our planters in the Quad area. We all enjoyed the planting and we are now dedicated to nurturing them and providing our Food Technology Department with our efforts to enhance their practical sessions.

Eco-Reps are also very lucky to be supported by our fantastic Facilities and Design Technology departments. Mr Page made us four new bird boxes out of recycled College materials, our logos were sign written and added to them by Mr Stidder and they were put up around the site by Mr Palmer and his team. We hope to soon be seeing more of our beaked friends and their young around the college as a result!

We remain committed to enhancing our recycling effort and our new bins will have simple step instructions on them to follow - watch this space!

ON-LINE SAFETY

DID YOU KNOW?

We all have that friend who thinks it's funny to sneak into your Social Media account and post embarrassing comments on your behalf. It's a laugh isn't it?

Not really.....because what this means is that you've left yourself logged into the account when away from the device that you normally use.

On modern smart phones that's the whole point: you get updated instantly all of the time and you don't have to "faff" around logging in when sending updates or pictures yourself. But how many apps on your devices do you leave logged in all the time? On how many websites have you ticked the "Remember me" button or said yes to that pop-up that asks you "would you like Internet Explorer / Chrome / Safari" etc to remember your password? How much of your private information do you allow a computer to auto-fill for you?

All of these are great and helpful things - as long as you never let that device out of your sight or ever let anyone else use it.

At best you just have a few more online conversations about what "so and so" wrote behind your back. At worst you could be allowing someone else to set you up as a cyber-bully or you could be giving your identity (and therefore your money) to a fraudster without even realising it.

Be careful about keeping anything logged in when you are not using it or about allowing auto-fill on fields when shopping online.

YEAR 11 ENGLISH AND MATHS AWAY DAY

30 Year 11 students were given a wonderful opportunity to spend a day off-site. The focus for the day was to intensively work on their English and Maths skills just ahead of the start of the exam season.

Students travelled by mini-bus to a conference room at Wellshurst Golf Club and spent the day sharpening their algebraic skills, their knowledge of the poetry anthology amongst other numeracy and literary topics.

All students worked extremely hard and were a credit to the school. Mia Austin Taylor said, "I've got so much work done today." Holly Brown commented that the day "was useful." A key message of the day was that with hard work everything is achievable. It was one students embraced.

The staff at the venue were also very complimentary about our students saying, "They are so polite and well-behaved. They're lovely."

The English and maths departments wish students the very best of luck in their upcoming English and maths exams but in also all of their other exams.
